Your student was instructed to supply the name of the correct explorer in the following sentences. If you wish, you may give your student the list of names (included as a supplement on page 2) and simply have him choose the correct name to write in each blank. Another alternative is to give this quiz orally, reading the description and having your student supply each explorer's name.

- 1. Sailing in the service of England, John Cabot, an Italian navigator, became the first European to visit the northeast coast of North America in 1497.
- 2. An experienced Italian seaman commissioned by the French, Giovanni da Verrazano led the first crew to observe and explore the Hudson River, New York Bay, and Cape Cod in 1525. Unfortunately, he also captured some of the native people and brought them back to Europe for display.
- From 1534 to 1543, Jacques Cartier, a French explorer, searched for a northwest passage to the Orient in what is now Canada. Though he did not find a passage, he did explore much of the interior of North America and claimed new territory for France. Note: If you are giving an oral quiz, you may want to mention the fact (which is not in Tapestry's resource) that Jacques Cartier was also the first European to sight the St. Lawrence River.
- 4. With Spain and Portugal controlling much of the trading sea routes, countries began to smuggle goods into smaller, less supervised ports. John Hawkins was one of the English captains most active in these secret operations. Sadly, he promoted the African slave trade as well.
- 5. An English adventurer who challenged Spanish dominion of the seas, Francis Drake made several voyages to the New World and raided many of Spain's ships. In 1580, he was the first Englishman to sail around the world, making him a national hero. His daring efforts paved the way for England's future supremacy of the seas.
